

Royal Giants Won 26; Tied One on Their Japanese Tour

Honolulu, Hawaii, June 8.—The Philadelphia Royal Giants, an aggregation of baseball players of the first caliber, left the United States March 9 for a tour of Japan and the Orient.

After a very stormy 18-day trip and two days in which to get rid of their sea legs, they swung into a very strenuous schedule of games and travel against the picked teams of Japan and Chosen.

Baseball in the Orient, Japan and Chosen, is very good, much better than one would expect, considering the short length of time that they have been playing ball there. They were not, of course, in a class with this aggregation of stars, which includes among its personnel such men as Captain Raleigh Mackey, short-stop; Herbert "Rap" Dickson, center-fielder de luxe; Andrew "Lefty" Cooper, pitcher par excellent; Pullen, catcher; Duncan, first baseman; Green, pitcher and right fielder, and one of the hardest hitting little men in present day baseball.

The Royal Giants club is made up of Negro league baseball players, brought together every year in California, where they play in the professional winter league under the management of Lon A. Goodwin.

The professional league is a five-team league composed of the cream of the white major and minor league ball players, except the Giants. This year and last they were successful in winning the championship of the league, after many gruelling and exciting games.

Truly an enviable record for any ball club, considering the fact that most of the time while off the ball field was spent in travel and then, too, quite a few of the games were played under some of the most adverse weather conditions, which are absolutely foreign to American baseball.

Following is their record against the leading teams of Japan and Korea:
